Thank You – A Note from the Former President

Dear everyone,

As I look back at everything we've done together this past year, I feel truly proud. Being part of this team and leading it has been one of the most meaningful parts of my college life. It showed me how even small efforts, when done with care, can make a real difference.

From the start, my goal was simple: to figure out what students needed, and see if we could provide that through AStHa. Whether it was a workshop, a talk, or a fun event, we always tried to think, "Will this help someone? Will people actually want to join?" Because there's no point in doing something if no one shows up, isn't it?

We spent hours planning how to make our events feel exciting and useful, so students wouldn't come because they were told to, but because they wanted to. And we actually pulled that off. I'm really proud of that.

To my team: thank you for sticking with me. You brought your ideas, your energy, your time, sometimes your sleep too. We had long days, late nights, and stressful moments. But we also had fun, we learned a lot, and we built something great. I couldn't have asked for a better group to work with.

To the students of our department: thank you for supporting us and being part of what we created. You made all our efforts worth it.

To the department and college administration: thank you for letting us do things our way and for stepping in with support when we needed it.

As this chapter ends and we pass things on to the next team, I hope they take AStHa even further. I believe they will. And even though my role ends here, I'll always be around to help in any way I can.

Thank you,
Sunayan Ghimire
